

Compelling Cooperation

Get ahead in the team.

Kaesler Nutrition supplies the international feed industry with safe, high-quality additives that enable economic animal nutrition and guarantee a sustainable, healthy future for man, animal, and the environment. Over 150 members of staff are cooperating closely on this challenging task at our headquarters in Cuxhaven and in our global representations.

To strengthen our sales team we are looking for a

Technical Specialist / Technical Service Manager (m/f)

Your tasks will include supporting the commercial teams on their markets (Ukraine (60% of working time), Russia and Byelorussia (30%) and Uzbekistan (10%)) with technical presentations, with realizing farms' audits for identifying potential benefits from using our products and with participating in adaptation and elaboration of marketing materials. You, also, will work in collaboration with the distributor's team in the above-mentioned regions. The main accent will be done on support of Lovit's sales for poultry farms.

Your profile:

- veterinarian (m/f) with more than 5-7 years of professional experience in technical support (poultry, feeding) for sales-teams in Ukraine
- good language skills in English for our internal communication
- feeling comfortable in a culturally diverse environment and a technically complex industry
- knowledge of country culture and structure in the above-mentioned regions
- strong self-organizing skills and demonstrating business acumen
- customer-oriented thinking and acting, teamwork and strong communication skills
- willingness to travel internationally

We offer:

- an open corporate culture within a modern international company, and a pleasant, respectful working environment with up-to-date equipment and a motivated team
- very good development and further training opportunities including coaching and individual career planning
- a multi-week, in-depth training in all areas of business
- all the advantages of a medium-sized company, with short and quick decision-making
- performance-related compensation, transparent targets and attractive social benefits
- a high degree of individual responsibility

Interested? Please submit your application, quoting the reference number KN-084 to our Human Resources department, Ms. Hanna Peters, preferably by e-mail: career@kaesler.de.